LINCOLN PARK ZOO

Pride of Chicago

It's amazing what you can accomplish when people take pride in a place. It's the best possible investment. Pride motivates us to do more, to give what can't be taken, to stretch ourselves to live up to a higher standard. Intangible, but invaluable, pride only increases in being shared, growing as it receives the embrace of a community.

By any standard, Lincoln Park Zoo had a year to be proud of. In the year behind us, zoo educators received Top Honors at the Association of Zoos and Aquariums annual meeting for their Partners in Fieldwork program. This outreach effort, launched by the Hurvis Center for Learning Innovation and Collaboration, enlists Chicago-area high school students to monitor the wildlife in their schoolyards, introducing participants to careers in science.

Lincoln Park Zoo's scientists set a strong example for anyone looking to follow in their footsteps. Last year zoo researchers discovered for the first time the potentially devastating chytrid fungus in Chicago-area frogs—and developed a new field method to non-invasively “swab” amphibians to measure stress levels, enabling investigations of new linkages between health and stress in these vulnerable species. Our experts also played a leading role in petitioning the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to recognize all chimpanzees as endangered, advancing our efforts to promote the welfare of this amazing species.

Closer to home, Lincoln Park Zoo celebrated the official grand opening of Regenstein Macaque Forest. The state-of-the-art habitat welcomed Japanese macaques to explore its hot spring and touch-screen booths. It also saw the resident troop grow from eight to 12 members. These baby snow monkeys were joined by other new arrivals throughout the zoo—planned births giving a crucial boost to endangered species including red pandas and Francois' langurs.

We're proud of these accomplishments, and we hope that you are too—they wouldn't be possible without your support. But we're also confident that Chicago's free zoo has even bigger plans ahead, setting new standards for our wildlife, our guests and the city we love.

Toward that end, we're officially announcing the Pride of Chicago campaign. This $125 million effort is committed to advancing Lincoln Park Zoo's reputation as an immersive home for wildlife, an amazing—and free—experience for guests and a leader in conservation, science and education.

You've already seen our first visions for the Pride of Chicago with Regenstein Macaque Forest and the upcoming Robert and Mayari Pritzker Penguin Cove and Walter Family Arctic Tundra, which will open this fall. These exciting homes for iconic species will be joined in the years ahead by a new Learning Center, a new Welcome Center for guests and a transformation of the historic Kovler Lion House at the heart of the zoo, one that will preserve the building's landmark character while creating new, naturalistic habitats sure to inspire connections with the zoo's animals—and commitments toward saving them.

With your support, this campaign will ensure that Lincoln Park Zoo continues to set the standard for zoos in the 21st century...and, more importantly, continues to be a place that we can all be proud of.

Pride in Our Achievements

Every year at Lincoln Park Zoo is filled with accomplishments ranging from new scientific discoveries to the simple joy of a child's first encounter with wildlife. Here are some of the biggest highlights from the year behind us.

The zoo's Partners in Fieldwork program won TOP HONORS IN EDUCATION at the annual conference of the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA) in September. The program, developed by the Hurvis Center for Learning Innovation and Collaboration, enlists high school students to chronicle the wildlife in their own schoolyards, building our urban-wildlife knowledge and introducing participants to hands-on science.

The zoo's newest, state-of-the-art habitat, REGENSTEIN MACAQUE FOREST, CELEBRATED ITS GRAND OPENING April 2, 2015. The eight-member snow monkey troop has since grown to 12 with four new arrivals. These complex primates have shared their cool culture via the exhibit's central hot spring and built-in touch-screens, all under the watchful eye of zoo scientists in a new research program managed by the Lester E. Fisher Center for the Study and Conservation of Apes.

In summer 2015, zoo scientists with the Urban Wildlife Institute and Davee Center for Epidemiology and Endocrinology DISCOVERED THE POTENTIALLY DEVASTATING CHYTRID FUNGUS in Chicago-area frog populations—and developed a new, non-invasive method for measuring stress levels among these vulnerable amphibians.

.....

The zoo and its experts played a leading role in successfully petitioning the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to RECOGNIZE ALL CHIMPANZEES AS ENDANGERED, a shift that was announced in June 2015. Scientists with the Lester E. Fisher Center for the Study and Conservation of Apes worked with partners including the AZA to advance this vital protection.

.....

Lincoln Park Zoo received a QUARTER CENTURY AWARD from the Association of Zoos and Aquariums to commemorate more than 25 years of continuous accreditation. The honor showcases our commitment to meeting the AZA's high standards, a zoo-wide effort encompassing everything from animal care to educational programs.

Pride in Our Partnerships

Lincoln Park Zoo is at its best when it's not alone in its mission to advance world-class animal care, conservation and education. Here are a few of the partnerships that made a difference for wildlife and people alike in the last fiscal year.

Last fall, the zoo embarked on AN UNPRECEDENTED PARTNERSHIP with another institution committed to chimpanzee welfare: the national chimpanzee sanctuary, Chimp Haven. By studying and sharing best practices ranging from behavioral monitoring to educational outreach, our two institutions can build a platform for improving chimpanzee welfare in every setting. As part of the collaboration, a researcher with the Lester E. Fisher Center for the Study and Conservation of Apes is working full time at Chimp Haven to study the sanctuary's nearly 200 chimpanzees.

Journalists from Al Jazeera English TRAVELED TO THE REMOTE REPUBLIC OF CONGO in November 2015 to share a series on updates on Lincoln Park Zoo's field work with gorillas and chimpanzees in the pristine Goulougo Triangle. The potential threats of logging and agriculture were highlighted alongside the work of zoo scientists to study and help save this one-of-a-kind ecosystem through the Goulougo Triangle Ape Project.

On May 15, 2015, Lincoln Park Zoo welcomed guests for Endangered Species Day activities highlighting our work to benefit threatened species. The day also marked THE LAUNCH OF THE SAVING ANIMALS FROM EXTINCTION (SAFE) INITIATIVE by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums. The effort sees accredited zoos and aquariums banding together to collectively conserve a list of keystone species including gorillas, black rhinos and African penguins.

The Hurvis Center for Learning Innovation and Collaboration continues to work with local students to connect youth with conservation and science. New this year: the CHICAGO ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARDS program saw Chicago fifth graders counseling peers on being PRO wildlife while the CONSERVATION AMBASSADORS BOARD enlisted local teens to develop events to raise conservation awareness among peers.

In May 2015, nearly 300 scientists gathered at the zoo for the INTERNATIONAL URBAN WILDLIFE CONFERENCE. The event, reflecting the leadership of our Urban Wildlife Institute, drew attendees from as far as Australia to discuss urban species and mitigating human-wildlife conflict.

Show Your Pride at lpzoo.org/pride or #PrideOfChicago!

The Urban Wildlife Institute’s monitoring efforts had a milestone year. In January, collaborators in Indianapolis and Madison, Wisconsin installed their own “camera traps” to chronicle urban wildlife—and deepen our understanding of city-based ecosystems. The Chicago Wildlife Watch citizen-science project also CELEBRATED MORE THAN 1 MILLION CLASSIFICATIONS of Chicago-area wildlife from contributors at chicagowildlifewatch.org!

.....

In October, zoo Animal Care experts TRAVELED AROUND THE GLOBE TO HELP SAVE ONE OF THE RAREST BIRDS ON EARTH: the Bali mynah. An international workshop welcomed reintroduction specialists, local stakeholders and zoo representatives to create a global working group to advance the recovery of these beautiful birds, which have effectively disappeared from the wild due to illegal poaching.

.....

The zoo welcomed a new learning leader—and outreach expert—with the September hiring of Vice President of Education and Community Engagement DANA MURPHY. Beyond leading Lincoln Park Zoo’s award-winning education programs, Murphy is also exploring new opportunities for forging partnerships with communities in Chicago and beyond.

.....

Zoo scientists returned to the field in Arizona last fall with partners including the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to evaluate the health of reintroduced black-footed ferrets. Scientists with the Davee Center for Epidemiology and Endocrinology PLAY A LEADING ROLE IN THE RECOVERY EFFORT FOR THE SPECIES, which is one of the most endangered mammals in North America.

Finally, NATIVE SPECIES WERE REINTRODUCED TO WILD SPACES in Illinois thanks to partnerships with local agencies. Eight smooth green snakes were reintroduced to their wild habitats last July thanks to a partnership between Lincoln Park Zoo and the McHenry County Conservation District. Similarly, 26 ornate box turtles that hatched at Lincoln Park Zoo and Brookfield Zoo were reintroduced to the Upper Mississippi National Wildlife and Fish Refuge in a partnership with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Pride in Our Pairings

Lincoln Park Zoo scientists are committed to making the right matches to let populations thrive in the long term—and the right recommendations to help bring endangered species back from the brink.

By creating models to EVALUATE THE HEALTH OF RED WOLF POPULATIONS in zoos and in the wild, Lincoln Park Zoo scientists are providing recovery planners with the facts they need to make the right decisions to ensure the future of this critically endangered species, which is native to the southeastern United States.

Zoo scientists continue to CALCULATE THE LONG-TERM HEALTH OF ANIMAL POPULATIONS across the Association of Zoos and Aquariums (AZA). Experts with the Alexander Center for Applied Population Biology conducted 34 population viability analyses in the past year, identifying which populations are sustainable with current trends—and which may need changes in management to thrive.

.....

Headquartered at Lincoln Park Zoo, the Association of Zoos and Aquariums Population Management Center ADVISES ZOOS AND AQUARIUMS ACROSS THE COUNTRY on making the right matches and moves to ensure the long-term health of the populations in their care. Last year alone they provided assistance to 171 AZA Animal Programs.

.....

Among the Population Management Center's breeding recommendations was one resulting in the ARRIVAL OF BABY SNOW MONKEY OBU on May 2, 2015. Arriving just a month after Regenstein Macaque Forest opened, Obu highlighted the species' comfort with their state-of-the-art new home.

.....

RED PANDA CUBS CLARK AND ADDISON also arrived thanks to a recommendation from the Red Panda Species Survival Plan®. Representing a species that's endangered in the wild, these cute climbers were born June 26 and spent several months growing behind the scenes with mom Leafa before making their fall debut.

.....

Lincoln Park Zoo's FIRST-EVER FLAMINGO HATCHES stemmed from another breeding recommendation—and plenty of encouragement from the zoo's Animal Care experts. Five Chilean flamingo chicks hatched last September, making their debut with the flock in March.

.....

Other recommended new arrivals for the year behind us included a HOFFMAN'S TWO-TOED SLOTH, klipspringer, Francois' langur, black-and-white colobus, black-necked stilt, crowned lemur, EUROPEAN WHITE STORK, Prevost's tree squirrel and two bleeding heart doves. Each addition excited guests—and helped sustain a healthy population.

Pride in Our Place

From landmark architecture to state-of-the-art animal habitats, Lincoln Park Zoo is a setting unlike any other in Chicago. Here are a few ways we made this urban oasis even more special in the last fiscal year.

NATURE IN MOTION: SCULPTURE AT LINCOLN PARK ZOO shaped the zoo's gardens into an outdoor art gallery from May–October. Led by the zoo's Garden & Sculpture Committee, the show featured 15 sculptures by 16 local artists who interpreted the theme in various media and styles.

An 8-foot-tall polar bear ice sculpture towered above ZOO BALL: ARCTIC BLAST on July 10. The Women's Board's annual gala—co-chaired by Karen Eisenbart and Denise Stefan Ginascol and sponsored by Jennifer N. Pritzker/Tawani Foundation/Pritzker Military Museum & Library—raised a cool $1.1 million to support continuing improvements at the zoo, including the upcoming Robert and Mayari Pritzker Penguin Cove and new Learning Center.

Regenstein Macaque Forest's snow monkeys inspired the revelry at ZOO-OLOGIE: MACAQUE MASQUERADE on May 9. The Auxiliary Board's key fundraiser, co-chaired by Andy Georgevich, Sarah Meyer-Fadel and Christine Sears, raised more than $200,000 to help keep the zoo open and free 365 days a year.

.....

Some VERY SPECIAL GUESTS ATTENDED THE ZOO'S FIRST DREAMNIGHT on September 15. The event—a partnership with Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago, Make-a-Wish Foundation and the University of Chicago Medicine Comer Children's Hospital—let children with chronic healthcare needs visit the zoo with their families, free of charge and after hours. DreamNight was generously funded by John Hart and Carol Prins.

.....

The zoo's INAUGURAL FALL FEST drew huge crowds throughout October. Guests enjoyed seasonal family fun including a corn maze, pumpkin patch and other country-flavored attractions.

.....

ATTENDANCE SOARED DURING ZOOLIGHTS Presented By ComEd and PowerShares QQQ. More than 530,000 guests streamed through the gates over 31 days, setting a new record for the brilliant holiday celebration.

.....

Finally, A MAKEOVER OF THE MAIN MALL, underwritten by Emily and John Alexander, added a pedestrian allée bordered by planter rows with perennial plants, elm trees and decorative lampposts. The elegant makeover—and all the other Lincoln Park Zoo highlights—ensures Chicago's free zoo continues to be a place we can all be proud of.

Financials
